

MEETING ROOMS

AT DOUBLETREE BY HILTON LONDON - EALING

We feel strong link with our Ealing and that is why our meeting rooms are named after strong individuals, which brought something to Ealing's community.

EALING SUITE

Encompasses 3 joining rooms: Byron Suite, Chambers Suite and Perceval Suite.

BYRON SUITE

Lady Byron (Lord Byron's widow) of Fordhook House, Ealing, founded Ealing Grove School in 1834 - the first industrial school of its type. In 1860 C. N. Atlee, a former headmaster of the Lady Byron School set up the Byron House School in St. Mary's Road (South Ealing Road). The site has evolved through many changes into the present-day University of West London. At the main entrance is a blue plaque dedicated to Lady Byron and her pioneering, enlightened approach to education.

CHAMBERS SUITE

Dorothea Chambers who won 7 Wimbledon Ladies Singles championships between 1903 and 1918, lived at 7 North Common Road in Ealing. A commemorative blue plaque was placed on her home in 2005 by English Heritage.

PERCEVAL SUITE

Spencer Perceval, Prime Minister from 1809 until 1812 lived at Elm Grove, a large house at the south-west corner of Ealing Common. Perceval was shot dead in the lobby of the House of Commons in May 1812 by John Bellingham. Bellingham was tried, found guilty and hanged just seven days later.

Foyer area

SPRINGFIELD SUITE

Dusty Springfield, was an English pop singer and record producer whose career extended from the late 1950s to the 1990s. Most of her years, she spent a major part living in Ealing.

TOWNSHEND SUITE

Pete Townshend is an English rock musician, multi-instrumentalist, vocalist, songwriter and author, known principally as the guitarist and songwriter for the rock group The Who, as well as for his own solo career, lived in Ealing Common with his parents; he attended Ealing Art School.

PERRY SUITE

Fred Perry, was a championship-winning English tennis and table tennis player who won 10 Majors including eight Grand Slams and two Pro Slams. Perry won three consecutive Wimbledon Championships from 1934 to 1936 and was World No. 1 or Co-No. 1 for four years in total. He lived in Brunner Road, Ealing and was educated at Ealing Grammar

School for Boys.